What Sloan's Liniment is used for

For relief of muscular rheumatism, lumbago, stiff neck, neuralgia, sciatica, sprains, bruises, chilblains and muscular cramp.

How Sloan's Liniment works

When applied on the skin, it gives a sensation of warmth and relief of pain.

Before you use Sloan's Liniment

- When you must not use it
Do not use this medicine if:
 - you are allergic to Oil of Turpentine, Methyl Salicylate, Menthol or any other ingredients of this medicine.
 - you have wounds or damaged skin.
 - below 2 years of age.
- Before you start to use it
Check with your doctor or pharmacist before taking Sloan's Liniment if you are allergic to any of the ingredients listed.

Apply a small amount to test on skin first before administering full dose if unsure of allergies.

- Taking other medicines
Tell your doctor if you are taking any other medicines, including any that you buy without a prescription from a pharmacy, supermarket or health food shop.

How to use Sloan's Liniment

Follow all directions given to you by your doctor and pharmacist carefully. They may differ from the information contained in this leaflet. If you do not understand the instructions on the label, ask your doctor or pharmacist for help.

- How much to use
Apply the liniment liberally with a soft flannel cloth or a piece of cotton wool.
- When to use it
Use Sloan's Liniment as needed or as directed by your doctor or pharmacist.
- How long to use it
Use this medicine for the duration that your doctor recommends or as necessary according to the recommended dose.

- If you forget to use it

Apply the missed dose as soon as you remember. If it is almost time for your next dose, wait until then to apply the medicine and skip the missed dose. Do not apply a double dose to make up for the missed dose.

- If you use too much (overdose)
Contact your doctor immediately or go to the Emergency Department of your nearest hospital, if you or anyone else may have used too much of this medicine. Do this even if there are no signs of discomfort or poisoning. You may need urgent medical attention.

Applying too much of this medicine may cause skin irritation or sensitization.
